Site Is Changed

Berlin (A) - A change in the site for the next meeting of the Big Four on Berlin was announced Sunday, setting off speculation that an agreement is imminent.

A statement released by the U.S. mission in West Berlin disclosed that the 33rd meeting Monday of ambassadors from the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union would take place at the American envoy's home instead of at the Allied Control Council building as originally scheduled.

West German reports said earlier an agreement was all but firm that the Russians would share responsibility for Berlin access.

A U.S. spokesman, asked if the change of meeting sites meant that an agreement had been reached and that only formalities remained, replid, "I am not permitted to say anything further."

The American envoy is Kenneth Rush, who reported to the West German government after last Wednesday's marathon session ended well after mignight It was expected, informants said, that a communique would be issued after the four ambassadors met at Rush's West Berlin residence. Rush will be chairman for what could be the final session of the 17 month-long talks.

According to unconfirmed German accounts, the Russians have agreed to participate in four-power responsibility for civilian traffic in and out of West Berlin, but the word guarantee does not appear in the draft agreement. If so, this would be a compromise wording since the Russians originally are known to have stated they would speak only on behalf of the East German government in the access question. The West is seeking primarily an access guarantee and Soviet endorsement of West Berlin's economic ties to West Germany as well as West German representation of West Berliners abroad. The West was understood to be offering a reduced West German political presence in West Berlin and a possible green light for a Soviet consulate general in the city in return for Russian concessions.

rarely envied by white men. The reservation's poverty is evidenced by the fact that 63°c of its inhabitants come from families whose combined annual income is less than $3.000, according to Phillip May, a Pine Ridge sociologist.

Unemployment on Pine Ridge is high - 36% in 1968 for males over 16 - and housing is poor. More than one-third of the reservation's 12,000 inhabitants still live in log cabins.

Likewise, many Nebraska Indians see themselves as victims of white prejudices, police injustices and unfair employment practices. More important, they feel their race is mocked by the white man Like many stereotypes, these may have a core of validity. According to Judge Robert Moran of the 16th Judicial District, less than 1,500 of the 42,000 residents of Cherry. Sioux, Dawes, Sheridan and Box Butte Counties are Indian. Yet Indians are prosecuted for 65-75% of the crimes, almost 90% of which are alcohol-related.

Moran, who has long been speaking of the need to take the problem of alcoholism out of the jails and into some kind of detoxification center, says "since alcoholism is a disease, not a crime, the treatment of such prisoners is nothing less than barbaric."

He stresses the police are not to blame - "they are obligated to get the people off the streets for their own protection and the protection of others."

A detoxification center or agency qualified to handle the complex problems of the area's Indians does not exist in the five northwest Nebraska communities. The jails do, and the number of Indians confined there grows each year.

Some, like three young men and a woman in Alliance this past year, die there.

Bolivian Government Overthrown

La Paz, Bolivia (A) - A three-man military junta, victorious in a bloody coup that left more than 50 dead and 100 injured, formally took the Bolivian government Sunday. Army Col. Hugo Banzer Suarez was named president.

Banzer, 46, called on the impoverished South American nation's 5 million people to "make sacrifices to build a better country."

Thousands Cheer

Thousands cheered the new president as he spoke from the balcony of the government palace in La Paz on Sunday afternoon. He said the terms "left and right" would be erased from the Bolivian political vocabulary.

He told the throng, "We will talk only of nationalism," but made no promises in his brief speech. "I'm not going to offer you anything because I don't have anything to offer at the present," he said.

The officers began the revolt in the eastern Bolivian city of Santa Cruz, charging that Torres was permitting the country to drift toward communism.

Saigon (A) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said Monday he will not campaign in the Oct 3 South Vietnamese presidential election. He proposed instead that he and President Nguyen Van Thieu resign, clearing the way for another election within 90 days.

Ky said he would run in a newly organized contest only if there were a new election law that was "not designed to serve one individual and oppress all others."

The vice president told a news conference the South Vietnamese Supreme Court reversed itself Saturday and reinstated him as a candidate because retired Gen. Study Says State Will Need Fewer Elementary Teachers

By MILAN WALL Star Staff Writer

Nebraska will need about 1,500 fewer public elementary schoolteachers in 1974-75 than it had during the past academic year, according to a study based on census projections.

The state had 8,160 full-time certified teachers last year, but will need only 7,096 (a drop of 1.524) three years hence, the study says, if current pupil-teacher ratios are maintained. Declining birth rates over the past few years account for the drop in projected need

The study was the work of Gerald Baird, a doctoral candidate in continuing education at the University ot Nebraska-Lincoln. He based his calculations on data compiled and reported annually by the State Department of Education. 'Attrition' Ratio Computed

Using school census data, Baird computed an "attrition" ratio to project the number of children by age groups in the next several years.

He compared, for example, the number of one-year-olds in 1964 with the number of 5-year-olds in 1968 and then determined an "attrition pattern" for the age category. His calculations indicate that declining birth rates will begin to affect school population drastically by 1974-75, when he estimates there will be nearly 18% fewer children in the 5 to 11-year age categories. More Secondary Teachers

A calculation for secondary teachers indicates there will be a need for slightly more teachers in the upper grades in '74-75, as compared with the '70-71 academic year.

There were 7,507 secondary teachers in the state last year, compared with Baird's projected need of 7,657 three years from now. The birth rate drop would begin to affect the secondary grades nearer the end of the

Baird's study comes at a time when more and more teachers are cxperiencing problems finding teaching positions in Nebraska and elsewhere. Department, College

The State Education Department has its own study of supply and demand in the state's teacher market under way, and the NU-Lincoln Teachers College said it is looking closely at the employment picture.

Baird's projections were based on average ratios of numbers of children to numbers of public school teachers, a ratio which has been declining in recent years.

Policies which change teacher hiring practices would undoubtedly affect the projected need, as would a major change in the numbers of families with small children moving into or out of the state.

Information which Baird utilized to arrive at his projections showed that the number of elementary teachers in the state increased only 2.3% from 1962-62 to 1970-71, while the number of secondary teachers went up

'Others' Increase

At the same time, however, "other elementary personnel" increased 165 9%, while "other secondary personnel" increased 101.2%.

The annual report of the State Education Department said "other personnel" includes principals, assistant principals, supervisors and consultants, librarians, guidance counselors, audio-visual specialists, psychologists and "others."

In some school districts in the state, the number of teaching aides hired has been increasing rapidly, as well, and a change there could also affect the hiring of teachers holding certificates.

The department's annual reports have not yet begun to report the numbers hired in the "aide" categories.

Study Says State Will Need Fewer Elementary Teachers

Nebraska will need about 1,500 fewer public elementary schoolteachers in 1974-75 than it had during the past academic year, according to a study based on census projections.

The state had 8,160 full-time certified teachers last year, but will need only 7,096 (a drop of 1,524) three years hence, the study says, if current pupil-teacher ratios are maintained.

Declining birth rates over the past few years account for the drop in projected need. The study was the work of Gerald

Using school census data, Baird computed an "attrition" ratio to project the number of children by age groups in the next several years. He compared, for example, the

The State Education Department has its own study of supply and demand in the state's teacher market under way, and the NU-Lincoln Teachers College said it is looking closely at the employment picture. Baird's projections were based on projected need, as would a major change in the numbers of families with small children moving into or out of the state. Information which Baird utilized to

The fifteen-square-mile parcel, encompassing rolling Pine Ridge hills covered with an evergreen forest, was taken over by the Forest Service in January, 1969, after a three year dispute with the Game Commission over who should get the land when the USDA's Agricultural Research Service (ARS) vacated it. At that time it was proclaimed part of the Nebraska National Forest by the Interior Department, the federal government's landdisposal agency.

The Forest Service intends to exclude permanently all motorized traffic from the area and develop a trail system, "back-country" campgrounds, fishing improvements, access roads and parking lots.

Development will retain the area's wilderness qualities while making it available for hunting, fishing, back-country camping, photography and horseback riding. The intention is to "provide a high-quality natural area for recreation," according to Wally Chesbro, district ranger

Additionally, the highway information might well serve certain laudable economic ends. The Interstate has made a terrific impact upon the nation. Yet Northeast China is obviously coming back into the world.

Along Dairen's modern waterfront these last few days were ships from Britain. Germany, Japan, the Soviet Union, Norway and Somali. One dock was crowded with Chinese trucks being hoisted aboard a modern Chinese freighter for Dar es Salaam, and according to officials here, the commercial traffic is Dairen has a handsome setting at the southern tip of the Liao Tung peninsula, which juts out into the Yellow Sea. It has a vast, well-protected. crescent-shaped harbor fairly secure from typhoons, and has a backdrop of hills and an atmosphere quite different from most Chinese cities.

The evidence of Japanese occupation is still very apparent. The buildings are taller, more functional and less Chinese somehow than in other major Chinese communities. There is even a Victorian church on "Friendship Square" in the middle of the city, its green gate locked, its modest tower covered with a vast colored poster of Mao Tse-Tung, and its churchyard almost invisible behind a large propaganda billboard.

It cannot compare with Shenyang, formerly Mukden, as a center of heavy industry or with Au Shan, 75 miles north, which has the largest iron and steel complex in China, but it has a sizeable electrical and locomotive industry, and if smoke is any indication of progress, it is on its way to acquiring all the advantages and disadvantages of

Bikes On Council Agenda It would seem to the point then, that

The Mayor's Bicycle Safety Committee has done a commendable job, after considerable research, in drafting an ordinance proposing rules of the road for bicyclists and in mapping bike routes which can be used as alternatives to travel on arterial streets. The ordinance is scheduled to be introduced before the City Council today.

The committee and other city officials recognize the merit in bicycling as a mode of transportation that is becoming increasingly popular and the necessity that bicycle, motor and pedestrian traffic be compatible.

The committee proposes 39 miles of routes, considered "cross-town primaries" for bicycles that are designed to give riders a "safe alternative" to traveling on arterials. The ordinance does not prohibit arterial travel. It does, however, permit the traffic engineer, with council approval, to regulate use of arterial streets by bicyclists during peak traffic hours. Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger has indicated that such arterials as Vine, Capital Parkway and O St. should be restricted to motor traffic during peak hours because of traffic conditions.

the council enact that portion of the ordinance permitting arterial restrictions, otherwise, setting up alternative bike routes would be somewhat of a meaningless exercise. The committee also recommended, and the council has approved, the expenditure in the next fiscal year of $5,000 for installation of signs on the new bicycle routes, $800 for bicycle racks at four "pilot" locations, $150 for printing the map of bike routes and $10,000 for construction of a bicycle-pedestrian bridge across Antelope Creek near Eden Park pool. If expenditure of the latter amount is questioned, it should be pointed out that at the present, north-south travel in that area is restricted to 48th St., an arterial. There is also considerable pedestrian traffic, mostly youngsters, generated by the swimming pool. Similar bridges have worked out well in other parts of the city.

With council approval of the committee's recommendations, city officials will have done their part to help reduce motor-bicyclepedestrian conflicts. The rest is up to the

The festival was never held, but Nebraska's senators, not willing to let existing laws take care of real public nuisances, felt something additional should go on the books.

Miss Eddy says she has a case to show why the State Fair should be closed under provisions of the law and that she has 150 signatures on a petition to back her up.

We flatly predict that Miss Eddy will not succeed in closing the State Fair. But if her efforts point out to legislators what abuses the law can be put to and for what an asinine purpose it was conceived, she will have achieved her purpose.

Readers should not be intimidated by the anonymous, name-calling letter (Star, Aug. 19) which enthusiastically endorsed the Nixon administration's inaction regarding the Kent State tragedy. Although the unknown writer does not appear concerned with the facts of the incident, interested citizens may refer to the President's Commission on Campus Disorders: FBI reports; books by James A. Michener, I. F. Stone, Peter Davies, and others; and the photographic evidence therein, in order to form an independent judgment. Fortunately, not all are condemned to live in a fool's paradise and to write irresponsible letters.

The author, calling himself "Platypus," seemingly approves of traditional American rights (except, of course, when one dares to exercise them) and prefers order (and possibly law) at any cost. One would like to think this is not a country where the people are shot by the state militia and the public then compelled to accept the reasons given by those responsible without an impartial investigation by a body empowered to prosecute. Alas, apparently not. The state can do no wrong.

Conscience of Senate-Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., known as the Conscience of the Senate, presides over the Ethics Committee, which regulates Senate conduct. Yet it has been whispered that he made off with furnishings from the original Senate chamber including a grand chandelier which once hung in the historic old room. We investigated and found the whispers highly inaccurate. All Stennis got were some bargain antiques. He paid $35 for an old table with three legs and $10 apiece for a couple of chairs.

The ordinance is scheduled to be introduced before the City Council today.

The committee and other city officials recognize the merit in bicycling as a mode of transportation that is becoming increasingly popular and the necessity that bicycle, motor and pedestrian traffic be compatible.

The committee proposes 39 miles of routes, considered "cross-town primaries" for bicycles that are designed to give riders a "safe alternative" to traveling on arterials. The ordinance does not prohibit arterial travel. It does, however, permit the traffic engineer, with council approval, to regulate use of arterial streets by bicyclists during peak traffic hours. Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger has indicated that such arterials as Vine, Capital Parkway and O St. should be restricted to motor traffic during peak hours because of traffic conditions.

permitting arterial restrictions, otherwise, setting up alternative bike routes would be somewhat of a meaningless exercise. The committee also recommended, and the council has approved, the expenditure in the next fiscal year of $5,000 for installation of signs on the new bicycle routes, $800 for bicycle racks at four "pilot" locations, $150 for printing the map of bike routes and $10,000 for construction of a bicycle-pedestrian bridge across Antelope Creek near Eden Park pool. If expenditure of the latter amount is questioned, it should be pointed out that at the present, north-south travel in that area is restricted to 48th St., an arterial. There is also considerable pedestrian traffic, mostly youngsters, generated by the swimming pool. Similar bridges have worked out well in other parts of the city.

With council approval of the committee's recommendations, city officials will have done their part to help reduce motor-bicycle-pedestrian conflicts. The rest is up to the

A University of Nebraska coed has received permission to appear before the Lancaster County Board Tuesday in her effort to close the Nebraska State Fair. Miss Beverly Eddy said last week her main interest is to get LB63 repealed in the next session of the Legislature. She feels the law is stupid and unfair.

The law provides that 50 residents of a county can sign a petition alleging that a scheduled public gathering will adversely affect the health and welfare of those in attendance. The county board may then hold a hearing on the grievance and can seek

The measure was drafted as a panicky response to reaction over a rock festival that had been planned for a farm in Gage County. The festival was never held, but Nebraska's senators, not willing to let existing laws take care of real public nuisances, felt something additional should go on the books.

Miss Eddy says she has a case to show why the State Fair should be closed under provisions of the law and that she has 150 signatures on a petition to back her up.

We flatly predict that Miss Eddy will not succeed in closing the State Fair. But if her efforts point out to legislators what abuses the law can be put to and for what an asinine purpose it was conceived, she will have achieved her purpose.

While I was disappointed in Attorney General Mitchell's weak response to the Kent State killings, I do not condemn him. I condemn instead persons such as "Platypus" for their distortions of the concept of justice. Mr. Mitchell said in effect that the Guardsmen were not acting in self-defense of their lives. Photos of the Guardsmen shooting also indicate this was the case. They were certainly under great stress and were evidently ill-trained for the situation. But if firing unnecessarily, unwarrantedly and inexcusably into a crowd of unarmed persons is an example of "justice," then we are sicker than I thought. It was certainly a swift act that established law and order but, as many residents of the USSR, Czechoslovakia or the People's Republic of China could testify, there is a profound difference between "law and order" and justice.

Northeast China, Once Called Manchuria, Gives Smoke-Filled Evidence Of Industry

DAIREN, China - The first country in 1949. thing you learn when you come to Manchuria is not to call it that. This rich industrial area, long the prize of war and struggle by Japan and Russia, is simply "Northeast China" to the Chinese, who now possess it in reasonable security and are developing it as fast as they Dairen, the second port in China after Shanghai, is a fairly good symbol of how isolated China has been from the rest of the world and also of how this isolation is now coming to an end. Even in a metropolitan community of four million, it is news that an American correspondent has been allowed to come here for the first time in almost a generation. Crowds gather in the streets just to observe this extraordinary phenomenon, and small children run indoors or seek the protection of their parents whenever the strange apparition appears. Yet Northeast China is obviously coming back into the world. Along Dairen's modern waterfront these last few days were ships from Britain, Germany, Japan, the Soviet Union, Norway and Somali. One dock was crowded with Chinese trucks being hoisted aboard a modern Chinese freighter for Dar es Salaam, and according to officials here, the commercial traffic is heavier than at any time since the communists took over this

JAMES RESTON

Dairen has a handsome setting at the southern tip of the Liao Tung peninsula, which juts out into the Yellow Sea. It has a vast, well-protected, crescent-shaped harbor fairly secure from typhoons, and has a backdrop of hills and an atmosphere quite different from most Chinese cities.

The evidence of Japanese occupation is still very apparent. The buildings are taller, more functional and less Chinese somehow than in other major Chinese communities. There is even a Victorian church on "Friendship Square" in the middle of the city, its green gate locked, its modest tower covered with a vast colored poster of Mao Tse-Tung, and its churchyard almost invisible behind a large propaganda billboard.

公 公 公 Still, Dairen is obviously jumping with the communist government's drive for industrialization. It cannot compare with Shenyang, formerly Mukden, as a center of heavy industry or with Au Shan, 75 miles north, which has the largest iron and steel complex in China, but it has a sizeable electrical and locomotive industry, and if smoke is any indication of progress, it is on its way to acquiring all the advantages and disadvantages of the modern industrial world.

Officials here are naturally a little skeptical about Western reporters. Most places the Chinese people tend to vanish when you aim a camera at them, but on the whole officials have been generous about allowing the use of cameras and tape recorders, and even expediting film out of the country without questions.

But here in Dairen the regulations were a little more strict. Cameras inside or on narrowly confined subjects outside, but no general views of the harbor or the city. This was no great handicap, since the factories were obviously more interested in the smoky atmosphere of production than anything else.

According to officials here, the Dairen harbor employed more than 40,000 men during the Japanese occupation, but is now handling three times as much commercial traffic with a little over 10,000.

In 1970, officials say, Dairen harbor handled 50 per cent more goods than the peak period before the Chinese cultural revolution of 1966-69, and was 24 per cent above its official target for the first six months of 1971. There is, of course, no way to make an objective check on these figures, but it is possible to confirm the official claim that the docks have been rebuilt and that modern freight-handling equipment has been installed in the last few years. The docks and warehouses are spacious, and the foreign ships were being loaded and unloaded with

One had been prepared for this the agricultural south, and in the larger farms north of the OFF THE RECORD Yangtse, but the Chinese workers are handling modern automated equipment in the vast steel rolling mills at Au Shan with the same enthusiasm and political zeal as the peasants in the agricultural communes farther south.

At Au Shan, to keep the electrical supply going even during storms, they have developed a system of repairing high-tension wires without cutting off the power, even of using dynamite to fuse broken wires while workmen are actually handling circuits carrying up to 220,000 volts. At least they put on a and for a man who is vaguely scared about changing a fuse, it was an impressive performance. Weddings In Late August

On Saturday afternoon, Aug. 21, the wedding of Miss Deborah Holly Benner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto R. Benner, and William Alan Morlok, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Morlok, took place at Redeemer Lutheran Church. The lines of the 3 o'clock service were read by the Rev. Melvin

The three attendants, including matron of honor Mrs. Paul B. Woller of Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. Charles R. Wink, the bridesmatron; and bridesmaid Miss Marcia Benner, wore alike, floor-length pant gowns of floral patterned chiffon in shades of pink, aqua and green.

Terry Morlok served his brother as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers were George Riege, Gene Meedel, and Charles R.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of white chiffon in the ivory tone. The smocking, which patterned the bodice, was repeated to cap and to cuff the Bishop sleeves and a band of pink satin ribbon, appliqued with embroidered organza fashioned the high collar. Beneath the Empire waistline the floor-length skirt, flared at the hemline, was accordion pleated. She completed her ensemble with a wide-brimmed picture hat from which extended her train-length veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade of pink roses.

Following a honeymoon trip to the east coast, Mr. Morlok and his bride will reside in Davisville, R.I., where he is stationed with the U.S. Navy. The bride was graduated from the University of Nebraska where she majored in elementary education. Mr. Morlok attended the University of Nebraska.

The wedding of Miss Eileen Malm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Malm of Wahoo, and Bruce C. Pinkerton of Lincoln, son of Dr. and Mrs. Clifford C. Pinkerton of Omaha, took place on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 21, at St. Wenceslaus Church in Wahoo. The 5 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rt. Rev. Joseph A. Mroczkowski.

Miss Mary Malm of Portland, Ore., was her sister's maid of honor and only attendant and her floor-length frock of apricot chiffon was fashioned in the Empire mode.

Mark Pinkerton of Lincoln served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were Kenneth Cobb of Lincoln, and Charles Malm, brother of the bride.

Silk organza and boucle lace over taffeta fashioned the gown chosen by the bride. An overlay of lace in a bolero effect patterned the Empire bodice which was designed with a throat-hugging collar of lace. The lace was repeated to cap and cuff the sheer organza sleeves, and to deeply border the silhouette skirt above a scalloped hemline. The scallop motif also accented the train which extended from back Empire height into cotillion length. A lace covered pillbox hat of peau de soie held in place her illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses in shades of apricot and white.

After Sept. 1, Mr. Pinkerton and his bride will reside at 324 So. 24th St., in Lincoln.

The bride is a junior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority, and where she is majoring in ecology. Mr. Pinkerton is a senior in pre-med, and is majoring in zoology.

The sheer Bishop sleeves and wedding band collar of the Empire bodice were framed with the lace and appligues of the lace formed a front panel on the gown from the neckline to the lace-edged hem of the A-line skirt. The floor-length veil of illusion was held to the head by a picture hat which was ornamented with lace and ribbon, and she carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies, gypsophelia, and ivy.

NORTHEAST BRANCH LIBRARY . . . under construction at Touzalin and Fremont.

Library Contractors Must Coordinate Work

By TOM EKVALL Star Staff Writer

Whether or not the new branch libraries will open Sept. 1 as scheduled depends largely on how quick contractors can coordinate their work to complete construction, Library Director Charles Dalrymple says.

Dalrymple said there are still a number of things left to be done to the buildings.

The library director said he still hopes that the new libraries will open on schedule - a week and a half

Simultaneous Openings Havelock, University Place, College View and Southeast Temporary Unit libraries will close simultaneously with the opening of the new branch libraries at Touzalin and Fremont and 56th and Normal.

The problem delaying finishing work, Dalrymple said, has been the "complications due to various contractors having difficulty in coordinating the completion of their work."

He had hoped the libraries would be done earlier, but blames no one. 'Can Avoid Delay'

"If everything clicks, we can avoid a delay in opening, Dalrymple said. The uncompleted jobs are ones, he said, which require one contractor to finish his work before the next can start and so on down the line. "I am encouraging the contractors to coordinate their work so that work can proceed as planned to finish by Sept. 1," Dalrymple said. He said that hoods and lighting

Jobs Interrelated

Ceilings cannot be completed until conduit work is in for the airconditioning and heating work, which also delays lighting work.

Installation of carpeting has been delayed because the ceilings were not completed, he said.

Library Contractors Must Coordinate Work

By TOM EKVALL Star Staff Writer

Poll: Foreign Involvement Opposed

By LOUIS HARRIS

The current mood of aversion to involvements abroad is summed up the 61-26% majority of American who feel that "the United States has achieved little by going to war and in the future, we should let other countries defend themselves."

When 10 possible trouble points around the globe were recently tested by the Harris Survey, in only two instances - the defense of this country itself, and the protection of neighbor-ing Canada — did majorities say the issue would justify going to war. In two others — the defense of Western Europe or Australia — pluralities expressed the view that going to war might be called for. But in the remaining six test cases, clear-cut pluralities or majorities replied that they were simply not worth the expenditure of American lives. In mid-July, a cross section of

1,493 households was asked: "Do you tend to agree or disagree with the statement that the U.S has achieved little by going to war to save other countries, and in the future we should let other countries defend themselves?"

How disenchanted the American people are with foreign commitments was better documented when they were asked about specific countries which might be in peril. There has been speculation, for example, that with the newfound opening of relations between the U.S. and mainland China, Russia might one day try to consolidate its position in Eastern Europe by take-overs of non-conformist Communist countries such as Yugoslavia and Rumania. The survey asked specifically about Yugoslavia, in the event it became the victim against U.S. involvement in as happened to Czechoslovakia:

THE PADDOCK

'Perfect' Kicker

If high school credentials are a measure of potential success, Bill Kosch could become Nebraska's 'perfect' placekicker.

After earning all-Big 8 laurels as a safetyman last year on coach Bob Devaney's national championship football team, Kosch suddenly finds himself in a three-way battle to assume the kicking chores from the graduated Paul Rogers.

"I only kicked one field goal in high school (Columbus Scotus) in one attempt, so I was perfect," the 6-0, 175-pound senior mused. "But I think the main thing a kicker needs is accuracy."

The back-up kicker to Rogers for the past two seasons, Kosch said the pressure of putting points on the scoreboard via the field goal or conversion routes make that phase of the foot game the most difficult.

"Sure, it's good to get that nice punt away, but it doesn't add up to points," he says. "When you're trying for points, that's when there's the most pressure and the crowd seems to notice you the most."

Battling Al Pieratt and Daryl White for the kicking position, the two-year letterman still terms helping to defend the Big 8 and national championship as his personal goal rather than personal gain. He rates hard work, desire and luck ("you've got to have the breaks") as the key ingredients to maintain NU's lofty football perch.

Others Deserve Credit

"I didn't get to practice over the summer as much as I wanted to," he says. "A kicker can win or lose ball games since many of them are decided by one point. But you've got to credit the holder and center - they have as much to do with the kick as the kicker."

But the former CS all-stater wasn's quite loafing this summer. He spent two months with the Lincoln Police Department in the traffic department and riding in squad cars and learning the police radio.

You learn a lot about the poorer conditions of the community and you find out there's a lot of domestic (family) fights," he relates. "You also find out that the traffic cop on the corner isn't so bad after all.'

Following his stint with the police force, he spent 22 days on a nine-country European caravan tour from late Padless Drils July to mid-August, leaving little time for rest. But even with all that traveling and working, Kosch said he still was able to train for the upcoming season.

"I would like to think that I'm in as good a condition as a wanted to be at this stage," he said. "I just want to play a normal game of football as well as I can."

Last season, Kosch led Big Eight pass stealers with seven interceptions for 99 return yards while another Columbus native, Joe Blahak, ranked second with six thefts for 175

The seven grabs were only one short of Dana Stephenson's Nebraska season record and sparked the Huskers to post 30 pass interceptions — more than any league opponent.

Those statistics helped point out Kosch's value to the defensive secondary. Now the question arises-can his kicking game match his defensive prowess?

WEISKOPF WINS WITH EAGLE

... Nicklaus' Charge Short In Philadelphia Classic

Philadelphia (A) — Tom Weiskopf responded to a Jack Nicklaus charge with an eagle three on the 17th hole Sunday and won the $30,000 first prize in the Philadelphia Golf Classic.

The 6-4 Weiskopf had a final round 70 for a 274 total, 14 under par on the 6,708-yard Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course. It was his second victory of the year.

blew his chances when he missed a four-foot putt on the final hole and finished with a 67 for 276.

Nicklaus picked up $10,650 from the total purse of $150,000 and pushed his season earnings to $205,568. He holds the single-season record at $211,566 set in 1967.

Canadian George Knudson had a 69 for 277 and was alone in fourth.

Dale Douglass, with a 72, and Bob Murphy, 70, tied for fifth at 280. Defending champion Billy Casper was far back in the pack with a final 71 for 285.

He was tied at that figure holes in front of Weiskopf, with little Dave Marr, who matched the best round in the tournament with a sparkling, seven-under-par 65.

> Hill, a slim, intense veteran who is on a year's probation for "conduct unbecoming a professional golfer," vaulted into a share of the lead with three birdies on the front side and Nicklaus moved into contention with birdies on three of four holes sarting at the 11th.

> It was a three-man race from then on, with Nicklaus taking a short-lived share of the lead when he scored a two-putt birdie on the 17th.

Weiskopf was still back on the 15th tee at that time, refus-

"I thought if I could birdie 18 I probably could win it," Nicklaus said. "I figured Tom had a good chance to make birdie on the 17th."

eagle that put him in front. But Weiskopf - who was quoted a week ago as saying he wasn't going to play in this event — regained a share of the top spot with a 16-foot birdie putt on the 16th, then ripped a seven iron out of the right rough to within 10 feet on the 487 yard 17th. He surveyed the putt carefully, then rolled it in and had a two stroke margin going to the final hole.

Weiskopf, a 28-year-old Onio native who won the Kemper Open earlier this season, put was short of the green in two and missed a seven-foot putt to finish with a meaningless bogey on the 18th. The victory pushed his earnings for the year to over

$96,000. Weiskopf had started in shakey fashion, missing the green on the first hole but managing to salvage par.

He birdied the sixth, chipping in from 30 feet, but bogeyed the eighth when he missed the green.

Weiskopf parred the rest, while Hill and Nicklaus made their moves, before he clinched it by going three under par on the 16th and 17th.

'Perfect' Kicker

If high school credentials are a measure of potential success, Bill Kosch could become Nebraska's 'perfect'

After earning all-Big 8 laurels as a safetyman last year on coach Bob Devaney's national championship football team, Kosch suddenly finds himself in a three-way battle to assume the kicking chores from the graduated Paul Rogers.

"I only kicked one field goal in high school (Columbus Scotus) in one attempt, so I was perfect," the 6-0, 175-pound senior mused. "But I think the main thing a kicker needs

The back-up kicker to Rogers for the past two seasons, Kosch said the pressure of putting points on the scoreboard via the field goal or conversion routes make that phase of the foot game the most difficult.

"Sure, it's good to get that nice punt away, but it doesn't add up to points," he says. "When you're trying for points, that's when there's the most pressure and the crowd seems to notice you the most."

Battling Al Pieratt and Daryl White for the kicking position, the two-year letterman still terms helping to defend the Big 8 and national championship as his personal goal rather than personal gain. He rates hard work, desire and luck ("you've got to have the breaks") as the key ingredients to maintain NU's lofty football perch.

Others Deserve Credit

"I didn't get to practice over the summer as much as I wanted to," he says. "A kicker can win or lose ball games since many of them are decided by one point. But you've got to credit the holder and center - they have as much to do with the kick as the kicker."

But the former CS all-stater wasn's quite loafing this summer. He spent two months with the Lincoln Police Department in the traffic department and riding in squad cars and learning the police radio.

"You learn a lot about the poorer conditions of the com-munity and you find out there's a lot of domestic (family) fights," he relates. "You also find out that the traffic cop on the corner isn't so bad after all."

Following his stint with the police force, he spent 22 days on a nine-country European caravan tour from late July to mid-August, leaving little time for rest. But even with all that traveling and working, Kosch said he still was able to train for the upcoming season.

"I would like to think that I'm in as good a condition as a wanted to be at this stage," he said. "I just want to play a normal game of football as well as I can."

Last season, Kosch led Big Eight pass stealers with seven interceptions for 99 return yards while another Columbus native, Joe Blahak, ranked second with six thefts for 175

The seven grabs were only one short of Dana Stephenson's Nebraska season record and sparked the Huskers to post 30 pass interceptions - more than any league opponent.

Those statistics helped point out Kosch's value to the defensive secondary. Now the question arises-can his kicking game match his defensive prowess?

WEISKOPF WINS WITH EAGLE

... Nicklaus' Charge Short In Philadelphia Classic

Philadelphia (A) — Tom Weiskopf responded to a Jack Nicklaus charge with an eagle three on the 17th hole Sunday and won the $30,000 first prize in the Philadelphia Golf Classic.

The 6-4 Weiskopf had a final round 70 for a 274 total, 14 under par on the 6,708-yard Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course. It was his second victory of the year.

Weiskopf, who held a three-stroke lead starting the final round finished one stroke ahead of Dave Hill with Nicklaus off the pace. Hill also eagled the 17th and 68 for 275.

Nicklaus, playing about two holes in front of Weiskopf, blew his chances when he missed a four-foot putt on the final hole and finished with a 67 for 276.

Nicklaus picked up $10,650 from the total purse of $150,000 and pushed his season earnings to $205,568. He holds the single-season record at $211,566 set in 1967.

Canadian George Knudson had a 69 for 277 and was alone

Dale Douglass, with a 72, and Bob Murphy, 70, tied for fifth at 280. Defending champion Billy Casper was far back in the pack with a final 71 for 285. He was tied at that figure matched the best round in the tournament with a sparkling, seven-under-par 65. Hill, a slim, intense veteran who is on a year's probation for "conduct unbecoming a professional golfer," vaulted into a share of the lead with three birdies on the front side and Nicklaus moved into contention with birdies on three of four holes sarting at the 11th.

It was a three-man race from then on, with Nicklaus taking a short-lived share of the lead when he scored a two-putt birdie on the 17th.

"I thought if I could birdie 18 I probably could win it," Nicklaus said. "I figured Tom had a good chance to make birdie on the 17th."

Nickklaus got off a huge drive on the 18th, then hit the flatstick with his putt, the ball rolling about four feet ing to tee off until marshals the leaders at that time, and he hit a six iron to within three feet on the 17th hole and he made the putt for an eagle that put him in front.

> But Weiskopf - who was quoted a week ago as saying he wasn't going to play in this event - regained a share of the top spot with a 16-foot birdie putt on the 16th, then ripped a seven iron out of the right rough to within 10 feet on the 487 yard 17th.

He surveyed the putt carefully, then rolled it in and had a two stroke margin going to the final hole.

Weiskopf, a 28-year-old Ohio native who won the Kemper Open earlier this season, put his drive in the right rough, was short of the green in two and missed a seven-foot putt to finish with a meaningless

bogey on the 18th. The victory pushed his earnings for the year to over

Weiskopf had started in shakey fashion, missing the green on the first hole but managing to salvage par.

He birdied the sixth, chipping in from 30 feet, but bogeyed the eighth when he missed the green.

Weiskopf parred the rest, while Hill and Nicklaus made their moves, before he clinched it by going three under par on the 16th and 17th.

said Sunday they believe a male visitor smuggled a gun to black militant George Jackson shortly before Jackson and five other persons were killed in Saturday's escape attempt at San Quentin Prison.

The 2,000 inmates were locked in their cells in the aftermath of the escape attempt, which authorities of the San Francisco Bay Area prison said was provoked by "revolutionaries." Officials called it "the blackest day in San Quentin's history."

Gun Drawn After Visit

Warden Louis Nelson said at a news conference that Jackson, one of the so-called Soledad Brothers, was visited by a man Saturday and that Jackson produced a 9mm foreign-made pistol afterward as guards prepared to strip and search him after the visit.

"Authorities are looking for the man because they believe he smuggled Jackson the gun," Nelson said in an interview. "Jackson had the gun immediately after the visitor left."

Nelson turned aside all questions about the identity of the visitor, who presumably would have been required to sign a visitors' roster at the

Officials said Jackson was fatally

shot during the escape try that lasted "about 30 seconds." Two guards and two white convicts died of slashed throats. A third guard was fatally shot in the forehead and his throat slashed. Three guards suffered slash wounds,

In his account of the prison break attempt, the Warden would not speculate on how Jackson's visitor managed to get the weapon through the prison's electronic metal-detecting

"In life anything is conceivable but the visitor was not likely to have it on his person" when passing through the device, he said.

He and other prison officials gave this account of the escape try: Prisoners normally are locked up in the cellblock which holds convicts awaiting trials for capital crimes. Some were out of their cells returning from visits or other business when the incident started at 3:10 p.m.

About one hour after Jackson's visitor left, Jackson was undergoing a search and drew the gun.

Throwing a master switch, Jackson unlocked 27 other dangerous convicts, including the other two Soledad Brothers and Ruchell Magee, 32, in the adjustment center where the bodies of three white guards and two white

The five were slashed with two razor blades, one attached to a toothbrush. Four were found in pools of blood in Jackson's cell. The fifth, a guard, was found in an alley way outside.

Jackson, wielding the gun, suddenly appeared outside the adjustment center which shares a three-story cellblock with Death Row, where nearly 100 convicts await execution.

Jackson and another black convict, Larry Spain, 22, who is serving time for first-degree murder, started running, Jackson firing two shots that went wild. To get outside the prison, they had to scale a 20-foot wall and then cross one half mile of walled prison

'Trying To Find Excuse' "He said he thought they were trying to find an excuse to kill him," said the father.

George Jackson's younger brother, Jonathan, 17, was killed in an Aug. 7, 1970, shootout during an escape attempt at the nearby Marin County Civic Center in which four died, including a judge.

Black militant Angela Davis is awaiting trial in Marin County superior Court charged with murder, kidnap and conspiracy in the Marin County shootout.

Inmates killed Saturday were Jackson, 29; John Lynn, 29, of Ventura, Calif., who was serving a sentence for second degree murder and first degree robbery, Ronald L. Kane, 28, of Fresno, Calif., serving time for car theft and a prison escape attempt.

PUBLIC SALE UNDER FEDERAL COURT ORDER OF OPERATING GRAIN ELEVATORS, to be held on

San Quentin, Calif. (A) — Authorities said Sunday they believe a male visitor smuggled a gun to black militant George Jackson shortly before Jackson and five other persons were killed in Saturday's escape attempt at San Quentin Prison.

The 2,000 inmates were locked in their cells in the aftermath of the escape attempt, which authorities of the San Francisco Bay Area prison said was provoked by "revolutionaries." Officials called it "the blackest day in San Quentin's history."

Gun Drawn After Visit

Warden Louis Nelson said at a news conference that Jackson, one of the so-called Soledad Brothers, was visited by a man Saturday and that Jackson produced a 9mm foreign-made pistol afterward as guards prepared to strip and search him after the visit.

"Authorities are looking for the man because they believe he smuggled Jackson the gun," Nelson said in an interview. "Jackson had the gun immediately after the visitor left."

Nelson turned aside all questions about the identity of the visitor, who presumably would have been required to sign a visitors' roster at the

Officials said Jackson was fatally

shot during the escape try that lasted "about 30 seconds." Two guards and two white convicts died of slashed throats. A third guard was fatally shot in the forehead and his throat slashed. Three guards suffered slash wounds, one seriously.

In his account of the prison break attempt, the Warden would not speculate on how Jackson's visitor managed to get the weapon through the prison's electronic metal-detecting device.

"In life anything is conceivable but the visitor was not likely to have it on his person" when passing through the device, he said.

He and other prison officials gave this account of the escape try:

Prisoners normally are locked up in the cellblock which holds convicts awaiting trials for capital crimes. Some were out of their cells returning from visits or other business when the incident started at 3:10 p.m.

About one hour after Jackson's visitor left, Jackson was undergoing a search and drew the gun.

Throwing a master switch, Jackson unlocked 27 other dangerous convicts, including the other two Soledad Brothers and Ruchell Magee, 32, in the adjustment center where the bodies of three white guards and two white convicts were found.

The five were slashed with two razor blades, one attached to a toothbrush. Four were found in pools of blood in Jackson's cell. The fifth, a guard, was found in an alley way outside.

Jackson, wielding the gun, suddenly appeared outside the adjustment center which shares a three-story cellblock with Death Row, where nearly 100 convicts await execution.

Jackson and another black convict, Larry Spain, 22, who is serving time for first-degree murder, started running, Jackson firing two shots that went wild. To get outside the prison, they had to scale a 20-foot wall and then cross one half mile of walled prison

Jackson Shot Down

Jackson was shot down before reaching the wall by one or two shots fired by a guard. Spain suffered minor injuries.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park blamed "talk by dilettante revolutionaries" and "people who advocate murder" for the breakout attempt, which he said involved 17 to 27 convicts. Jackson's father, preparing to bury the second of his two sons killed in an escape attempt, said the second death was not unexpected.

Lester Jackson Jr., the father, said he visited George Jackson in prison 12 days ago and "George said things were peculiar at San Quentin, that he had never seen things like that

'Trying To Find Excuse'

Is Being Probed In Scottsbluff

Gering, Neb. (A) -Scottsbluff County sheriff's officers were attempting Sunday to learn of the activities of Pat Vostades, 40, of Gering Friday night before he was shot fatally. The Consumers Public Power District employe's body was found Saturday riddled with seven slugs along a country road about 5 miles south of Stegall.

Officers theorized he may have been shot elsewhere and the body dumped from a vehicle on the road. Officers said Vostades was shot seven times, twice in the head and five times in the body.

The weapon was believed to be a .38-caliber revolver. Vostades was divorced. His

The 90-day freeze in wages, prices and dividends at best gives the people a chance to get off the treadmill and look at what caused us to price some of our goods out of international markets. George Meany, President, AFL-CIO, had not contributed to economic derstanding by ascribing the recession to Nixon and to excessive profits.

The significant change has been that the U.S. has lost its former secret weapon for offsetting domestic wage rates, far above the international average, by use of unique mass production techniques. Now other nations, led by Japan and West Germany, with lower wage rates, have adopted the most sophisticated technology.
